Certification trainings

DISC Boulevard

Why get certified?

Professional development starts with yourself.

Anyone who guides people and teams in their development also invests in their own knowledge, skills and expertise.

A certification with DISC Boulevard offers more than theoretical knowledge. You develop a solid foundation to professionally apply DISC and Motivators in conversations, coaching, training, team development and selection. You learn to understand the models, apply them carefully, explain them clearly and translate them into everyday practice.

Grow into a certified professional and deepen your expertise.

Want to work professionally with DISC, Motivators or the combination of both? Then certification is a logical next step. You deepen your knowledge, practise applying it and develop the skills to work with it independently.

DISC Boulevard offers certification trainings through open enrolment. You work in small groups, guided by experienced trainers, with a programme that connects directly to your own practice.

Dates and enrolment

A certification with DISC Boulevard gives you a solid foundation to work professionally with behaviour and motivation.

Which certifications do we offer?

DISC certification (2 days)

The professional foundation for anyone who wants to recognise, understand and discuss behaviour and communication. You explore the DISC model in depth and learn to recognise, interpret and carefully discuss behavioural styles.

You learn to read DISC profiles, interpret graphs and hold professional feedback conversations. The first day focuses on knowledge and insight. On the second day, you practise intensively with practical application.

Afterwards, you can professionally apply DISC in conversations, coaching and training, and as an additional tool in selection.

Motivators certification (1 day)

Insight into what motivates and energises people.

You discover which values and needs give direction to motivation, choices and development. You learn how to explore this motivational layer and discuss it in coaching, guidance and development.

You explore the meaning of each motivator in depth and learn to translate it into behaviour, choices and development questions.

Afterwards, you can carefully interpret Motivation profiles, clearly explain the theory and connect it to DISC profiles.

Combined DISC and motivators certification (3 days)

Want to complete both the DISC Certification and the Motivators Certification? With the Combined Certification, you follow both trainings consecutively in a single programme.

On days one and two, you complete the full DISC Certification. On day three, you finish with the Motivators Certification. This means you complete both certifications in one go and benefit from a more favourable combined rate.

Team certification

DISC teams certification (1 day)

From individual behaviour to team dynamics. You learn how different behavioural styles come together within a team, which patterns this can create and how to make them visible and open for discussion.

You get practical tools and methods to guide teams in strengthening mutual understanding, communication and collaboration. You can apply these directly in team trainings and development programmes.

This certification is intended for professionals who have mastered the basics of DISC and want to deepen and apply their knowledge at team level.

Motivators team certification (1 day)

From individual motivators to what moves a team forward.

You learn how different motivators come together within a team, where they reinforce each other and where tension can arise. You explore what energises a team, which motivators are strongly represented and which perspectives receive less obvious attention.

You get practical tools and methods to make motivation, choices and mutual differences within teams visible and open for discussion. It also covers how to connect motivators to DISC team profiles, so behaviour and motivation can be viewed together.

This certification is intended for professionals who have mastered the basics of Motivators and want to deepen and apply their knowledge at team level.

What can you expect?

All of DISC Boulevard's certifications are practice-oriented, interactive and directly applicable. The trainings are delivered by experienced trainers and specialists.

You go home with:

- ✓ a DISC Boulevard certificate;
- ✓ a professional guide as a reference work;
- ✓ your own DISC and/or Motivators assessment;
- ✓ practical tools and methods;
- ✓ your own account in our online portal;
- ✓ service and support, even after the training.

Who is it for?

Our certifications are intended for HR professionals, trainers, team coaches, coaches, managers and recruiters who guide people and teams in their development and want to consciously invest in their own expertise.

During a training through open enrolment, you work alongside professionals from different organisations and sectors. That brings new perspectives, enriches the exercises and grows your network.

Location

Our certification trainings take place in Velp and Antwerp.
